PREFACE.

THIS pedigree of the Hart family was projected some thirty years since by Deacon Simeon Hart, of Farmington, Conn. He was son of Simeon of Burlington, Conn. ; was a graduate of Yale College, and a noted educator—a man every way fitted for the task, having a natural taste for history, and more especially for antiquarian research. His adopted home was also the home of the Harts. Here the progenitor, Dea. Stephen Hart, fixed his residence, raised his family, made his mark in the world, and here he died. Here, also, are found the land records of the Harts for many generations, as well as other town and probate records ; so that Mr. Hart had the material for starting such a work as this at hand, even at his door.

He spent his leisure hours for several years over the work of corresponding, traveling, and searching the various records, both public and private, until he verily thought he had almost accomplished the object intended. I have been told he began to think of putting the work to press, when he was taken suddenly ill, and died April 30th, 1853, when it was supposed all his labor in this direction was lost. After a delay of some time, and a sad feeling of disappointment on the part of Mrs. Hart, the widow, it was proposed that Rev. Wm. S. Porter, of Farmington, (but later of New Haven,) a friend of the deceased, and a man of much experience in writing up family pedigree, should finish the work and put it to press. But he was poor, and could not work without pay. Mrs. Hart, with her family of little ones, could not advance funds, and here again was a dilemma. Prof. John S. Hart, LL. D., of Philadelphia, was applied to, either to finish and publish, or devise ways and means to have it done. But he declined politely ; probably he knew that in all jobs of this kind money went out, but none came in. Well, as “necessity is the mother of invention,” the proposition then was to raise, by subscription among the Harts near by, a sum of money, to be deposited in the Farmington Savings Bank, with which Mr. Porter could be paid for his time and expense. The sum of three hundred dollars was raised and deposited, on condition that it be refunded to the donors should the work or book fail of being published. In the meantime, Mr. Porter had so far perfected the MS. that he concluded it was ready, or about ready, for the printer, when he too died, and the money was refunded and the enterprize abandoned, and the papers laid away for the moths to eat and oblivion to brood over.

In passing, perhaps I ought to say there was a donation or subscription from the South, I think one of the Harts in South Carolina, of twenty-five dollars, never refunded; probably went directly into Mr. Porter's hands. In the meantime I had published my history of New Britain, in 1867, which contained a partial history of some three hundred Harts—parents and children, and a friend of mine (an expert in pedigree) suggested, since I had at hand so much Hart history, I could, and perhaps ought, to publish a work exclusively on the Hart family. Then I had never examined the MS. of Hart and Porter above, and called on Mrs. Hart for the loan of it. My friend said to me, after an examination, if you will correspond and gather facts and dates and print it, I will collate the families and make an index. This was about four years ago, and we have been busy ever since in perfecting the work and preparing it for the press. We have insisted upon having full names and full dates in all cases, both males and females, believing mere initials or half-dates are too much of a nuisance to be borne or tolerated by Antiquaries. We have worked for nothing and kept ourselves, furnishing stationery and stamps for correspondence—except a donation of twenty dollars from Mrs. Almira Hart Lincoln Phelps, of Baltimore, for which she has our thanks.

I should never have undertaken the task except for the help and encouragement of my friend and associate, Gad Andrews, Esq., of Southington, above alluded to; so the Hart family may consider themselves indebted to him for what both of us have done. But some one may say, how is this? we thought Dea. Hart had almost finished the work, and since that Mr. Porter had finished it again, how then could there be so much labor left? In reply it might be said, since Dea. Hart began a whole generation have been born, and a generation more numerous than all that went before them, for they have multiplied exceedingly (like the Israelites), and have filled the land—families numbering from six to seventeen children. When I told one man, a Hart, what I was about, he replied, "you are a fool—you can't write them down as fast as they are born." Now although this is not literally and strictly true, yet it is comparatively so. The great labor is not in writing them down, but in finding the names, dates, and location of parties. Previous to the Revolutionary war almost every family had the births, marriages, and deaths on the public records, as well as in the old family Bible; now a large majority dispense with the Bible record, and less than one-third of the people have any written family record at all, and when called upon for a copy of their family record, don't seem to know what you mean, or what to say in response, and after a delay of three months, six months, or in some cases a year, and by a repetition of other letters of enquiry, they are at length forced to answer as best they can from tradition or recollection. The Hart family are not more culpable or indifferent than others; my experience for twenty years' enquiry shows all families very much alike in this respect. Some people see no use in such a work as this—it deals too much with the past. A young man in active business in New York city said to me—"what do I care for the past, who my grandfather was, or my great grandfather: show me how to make a dollar and I will listen to you." Others say, this is a book speculation, a swindle; they have found that the Harts have money in the Bank of England, and they are forestalling them to secure the money. I have heard that families have withheld the desired information from such apprehensions. Notwithstanding all the difficulties and disadvantages alluded to, it is hoped and expected that the following pages will afford much information, instruction, and entertainment to the reader, especially that portion advanced in life, who always look back on the road they have trodden, while the young look forward, hoping for future good. Money-making is the very last thing hoped for or expected in a work of this kind. Somebody has to advance or donate a considerable sum of money to help it through the press, and wait some months or years for the sales to pay even the printer's bills—to say nothing of the thirty years of labor bestowed and money advanced to accomplish the end desired. No pains or expense has been spared to make the work perfect and complete. Books of reference have been used, friends consulted, records exhausted, and every available means adopted to make the work full and correct. The sketches of individuals will be found more or less complete and satisfactory, according to the material furnished by the parties themselves, if living, or if deceased, by their friends, or public records for the generations past. One man at the West demurred to respond to enquiries because my name was Andrews, and I had to explain and conciliate by saying my first wife was a Hart, my eldest aunt married a Hart, I was born in 1797 among the Harts, was raised and lived seventy-seven years a neighbor to them, wrote a history of some three hundred of them in 1869, and hence felt an interest in the matter. After thus defining my position the man was gained, and a good response too. Hence it appears that a large share of the indifference manifested arises from misapprehension, or ignorance of the object and purpose designed by the author.

The old town of Farmington, so rich in early history, is the mother of the Hart family, a family very numerous, honorable, and highly distinguished for piety, industry, and patriotism. Rev. Dr. Smalley settled in 1758 in New Britain, then a parish of Farmington, had his congregation largely composed of Stanleys and Harts, and used to say he looked to Harts for grace, and Stanleys for money—probably the saying was more appropriate then, than it would be now, a century later. It is thought the Hart family were formerly rather above a medium size, dark complexioned, with dark hair and eyes; this, however, would not be true in all cases. It has been said of the Harts, that they were domestic, had a great love of home, seldom wandered far for a settlement in life; that they were, on the contrary, more inclined to be clanish. This may be true of former generations, perhaps, but would not apply to the present. They now scatter far and wide, from Saybrook in Connecticut, to the Pacific coast, and are found in all intermediate places, states, and some in the British possessions. I have attempted to locate them all, and give the avocation of each male head of a family, but have failed too often for want of information. The patriotism of the family is proved by the great number found in the ranks of the armies of 1775, 1812, and 1861, either as officers or privates. I have found over two hundred and fifty names of Harts as soldiers, and many are doubtless omitted from the list for want of information. The learned professions are well represented, especially clergymen and physicians, but lawyers and authors are not numerous. I have gathered them in groups in the introduction to the history of the family, that the reader may see a kind of summary at a glance. •

In the construction of this pedigree I have followed the plan of numbering used in my former published works, which in their use have proved satisfactory. I refer to my History of New Britain, published in 1867, and my Andrews Memorial, published in 1873. The index used in the Andrews and Hart memorials is unlike any other ever published (it is thought), saving much waste of time to the reader and much perplexity of mind. The peculiarity referred to is this: after a person has a number prefixed to his or her name, the father's and grandfather's name follows, or is annexed, so that a person knowing father and grandfather will find his or her history without a mistake or delay; thus the labor of finding one's own name in a list of fifty to one hundred similar names is greatly facilitated. In addition to those already mentioned as helps, I am under obligations to Col. William Seward Gridley, of Jackson, Mich., who is preparing a Gridley pedigree; to Dr. D. Williams Patterson, of Newark Valley, N. Y., who is an expert in pedigree hunting; and last, but not least, to Rev. James Dickinson. of Middlefield. Conn., for free access to his very extensive and valuable library.

With these preliminary remarks, which seemed to be necessary to define my position, I submit the following pages to the very numerous posterity of a puritan and venerated progenitor. Should the present living generation be led to honor their parents more, and be more inclined to perpetuate their memory, and the generations to come who peruse this volume be induced to imitate the virtues of their pious ancestors, one great object of the writer will be attained.

I must not forget or neglect to say, that the Hart family are indebted to Austin Hart, Esq., a lawyer of New Britain, Conn., for an engraving representing the face of Dea. Simeon Hart, and placed as frontispiece of this work, and who also has generously volunteered to publish the work itself. This he does without a subscription list to back him up, or recourse to any fund, but relies entirely upon the liberality of the family to patronize its sale, so that the expenses may be met promptly for paper, printing, and binding.

I am also under obligations to W. W. H. Davis, author of a pedigree and history of John Hart, the Quaker, who came over with Wm. Penn, and settled near Philadelphia in 1682. From this pamphlet I have made several extracts in constructing my Introduction, calling them miscellaneous Harts.

INTRODUCTION.

THE name of Hart seems to be common to several nationalities ;—England has its Harts, Scotland and Ireland. The origin of the name is not made known. Whether it obtained a place from David's beautiful animal that panted for the water brooks, does not fully appear. The variety in spelling is not as great as appears in many other names. The prevailing is simply Hart,—occasionally Hartt, Harte, Heart, and Hearte. Maj. Jonathan Hart, of Kensington, Conn., (in some respects the most distinguished man of the race,) always spelt and signed Heart. Edmund Harte, (supposed to be a brother of Deacon Stephen Hart, who stands at the head of this "Hart Memorial" as progenitor,) has his name in a list of those who took the freeman's oath May 14th, 1634, as spelled above,—Harte ; while his brother, Stephen, is in the same list of Winthrop's New England,—Hart. So that a difference in spelling (as is the case with many other families,) does not determine the race or family to which they belong. The history of Dorchester, Mass., makes Edmund Hart, above, one of the first settlers of that town, and had his house lot 1632, but subsequently removed to Weymouth. Savage makes his children all daughters, and thus his name disappeared. Honest John Hart, (as he is called,) born at Hopewell, N. J., and who died there at an advanced age, in 1780, was the son of Edward, a farmer. He passed the early portion of his life on his estate, and being often elected to the colonial assembly, was prominent, especially in legislating for local improvements. In 1774, he was chosen to the General Congress, at Philadelphia, where he was noted for his sound judgment and inflexible determination ; he was re-elected the two following years, and signed the declaration of Independence with peculiar zeal. New Jersey was soon invaded by the British army ; the estate of Mr. Hart was devastated, and special exertions were made to take him prisoner. He fled from his family and wandered through the woods, from cottage to cottage, and from cave to cave, constantly hunted by his enemies, so that he never ventured to sleep twice in the same place. The capture of the Hessians, by Washington, allowed him to return to his estate, on which he passed the remainder of his life. His descendants are somewhat numerous and are scattered over the south and west. He had two sons in the war of the Revolution.—Edward and Daniel. He has a grandson, Joseph, living on the top of Rich Mountain, in West Virginia, 1874, who is over seventy-six years of age, whose farm was a part of the battle-field in the late war, who, with his family, were loyal to our flag, and who had five sons in the Union army. His long letter, of eleven pages foolscap, is before me, full of the same kind of patriotism that moved his grandfather, honest John Hart, the signer of the Declaration of American Independence. He represents the view from the top of Rich Mountain as beautiful beyond all description. H. S. Hart, of Circleville, Kansas, is a great-grandson of John, the signer of the Declaration.

Joel T. Hart, an American sculptor, was born in Clark Co., Ky., about 1810; he was of humble parentage, and while a boy, found employment in building chimneys, and other kinds of mason work. His education was restricted to a quarter's schooling, but he became an indefatigable reader of such books as came within his reach, spending his evenings over them by the light of a wood fire. In 1830, he entered a stone cutter's establishment in Lexington. By degrees, he was induced to attempt modeling busts in clay, and succeeded in obtaining good likenesses of many influential persons in Lexington, and elsewhere in the West. Among others, Gen. Jackson and Cassius M. Clay sat to him, and the latter gave him his first commission for a bust in marble. The work, when completed, proved so satisfactory, that the artist was commissioned by the Ladies' Clay Association of Virginia, to execute a marble statue of Henry Clay. He commenced his model from the life, in 1846, and after three years labor upon it, shipped it to Italy, to be executed in marble. He reached Florence in the latter part of 1849, and after waiting a whole year for the arrival of his model, which had been lost by shipwreck in the Bay of Biscay, was obliged to send to Lexington for a duplicate. This, and other delays, protracted the completion of the work for several years, and it was not until the 29th of August, 1859, that the statue was shipped for the United States. In the interim Mr. Hart had executed many busts of eminent men, and some ideal works. He is now engaged upon a colossal statue of Henry Clay, for the city of New Orleans.

Solomon Alexander Hart, an English painter of history, was born in Plymouth, April, 1806. He commenced his career by painting miniatures, but in 1828, turned his attention to historical subjects, and at once achieved a reputation by painting some scenes from the Jewish ceremonial, which his Jewish origin enabled him to treat con amore. He next painted scenes from Scott and Shakespeare, and the romantic episodes of history; and again, between 1845–50, recurred to Jewish subjects. He has also shown a strong partiality for subjects illustrating the ceremonials of the Roman Catholic church. He possesses great technical power, and a feeling for the picturesque, and his works are popular. In 1840, he became an academician, and in 1864, succeeded Mr. Leslie as Professor of Painting in the Royal Academy.

William Hart, an American painter, was born in Paisley, Scotland, in 1823. Emigrating with his parents to the United States, in 1831, he settled in Albany, and in a few years was apprenticed to Messrs. Eaton & Gilbert, coach makers, in Troy, by whom he was employed to paint the panels of coaches. He subsequently painted landscapes, portraits, and even window shades. Since 1848, he has been a regular exhibitor at the National Academy of Design, of which, in 1858, he was elected an academician, having for ten years previous been an associate. He has for some years been a resident of New York. James M., brother of William, born in Kilmarnock, Ayrshire, Scotland, in 1828, a landscape painter, also commenced life as a coach maker, and like his brother, was induced, by a natural taste for art, to adopt the profession of landscape painter. In 1851, he went to Dusseldorf, where he spent nearly a year under the instruction of Schirmer. He returned to Albany, in 1852, and in 1856, he removed to New York. In 1857, he was elected an associate of the Academy of Design, and in 1859, an academician.

Oliver Hart, M. A., an eminent minister of Charleston, S. C., was born in Warminster, Pa., in 1723, baptized in 1740, on profession of faith, and ordained to the Gospel ministry in 1749. The same year he succeeded Mr. Chandler, at Charleston, as pastor of the Baptist Church, where he labored honorably and successfully for thirty years. Many owned him as a spiritual father, among whom was Rev. Dr. Stillman, of Boston. Mr. Hart was a self-educated man. His countenance was open and manly, his voice clear, harmonious, and commanding, the powers of his mind were strong and capacious, enriched by a fund of knowledge, classical, scientific, and theological, and his taste was elegant and refined. He composed much devotional poetry;—but as a Christian and pastor was most conspicuous. He walked with God; the doctrines of free and efficacious grace were precious to him; his desire for usefulness was ardent and incessant. He was a prime mover in forming an Association of the churches;—he also originated a society for educating young ministers of the Gospel to enlarged usefulness. In 1775, he was chosen by the council of safety, to travel, in conjunction with Rev. Wm. Tennent and Hon. Wm. H. Drayton, in the interior, to conciliate the inhabitants of South Carolina to the measures of Congress. In consequence of his successful efforts in this way, he was obliged to leave Charleston, in 1780, to avoid falling into the hands of the British. He settled at Hopewell, N. J., the same year, where he remained until his death, in 1795, at the age of 72. He died in the triumph of faith, exclaiming: "Enough, enough."—Benedict, vol. 2d, p. 323.

Hon. O. B. Hart, governor of Florida, died March 18th, 1874, after a lingering illness.—Daily Courant, of Hartford, Conn.

Capt. S. S. Hart died July 19th, 1873. He was for twenty-five years connected with the Norwich & New York line of steamers.—Daily Courant.

Cornelius Hart, Huntington, L. I.; origin not found. His father, it is said, was of Connecticut, and removed to Suffolk Co., L. I.—was a farmer, and had six children before the Revolutionary War, viz.:—Cornelius, Michael, Joshua, John, and two daughters:—Joshua was a minister. Cornelius married and had Ebenezer, who married Margaret Howell, and they had eight children, viz.: 1. Charles: 2. Betsey: 3. Polly: 4. Alfred: 5. Eunice: 6. Silas S.: 7. David: 8. I. W. Hart. Alfred was born March 9th, 1797,—removed to Rockford, Winnebago Co., Ill., and married, April 26th, 1826, Betsey Atwater, of Connecticut: they had six children, three of whom died young. Alfred, Jr., their eldest, is now living, and engaged in mercantile business in Rockford.

Samuel Stryker Hart, Janesville, Rock Co., Wis., son of Andrew T. Hart and his wife Harriet Brown Whitlock, was born in New York City, April 23d, 1840; he married, April 5th, 1870, Clarissa Souza. He was admitted to the Congregational Church, Janesville, in 1858. He studied for the ministry partly with Rev. Mr. Goodspeed, at Janesville, and partly at the Chicago Theological Seminary. When the war broke out he, with another young man, raised a company of volunteers,—he being chosen 1st Lieutenant, and his friend being elected Captain. He recruited and drilled until the regiment (the 13th Wisconsin Volunteers,) left for the field, in which he continued to the close of the war,—being, in the mean time, promoted to a captaincy. After the war, he received an appointment in the revenue department, in Chicago, and in April, 1870, went to Helena, Montana. On his return, he was taken sick at Fort Buford, on the Missouri river, Aug. 17th, 1872, and died, aged 32 years, 4 months, and 6 days. His wife had his body embalmed and brought home, and buried by his beloved mother, at Oak Hill cemetery, in Janesville. He left no children.

They had seven children, only one of whom is fully reported, viz. : Andrew Thomas, born July 3d, 1808, now living (1873,) at Janesville, Rock Co., Wis. ; he married, May 5th, 1831, Harriet Brown Whitlock, daughter of William and Julia Brown Whitlock, of Elizabethtown, N. J. ;—she died Dec. 9th, 1868, and was buried at Oak Hill cemetery, Janesville. He was in mercantile business in New York City until 1838 ; afterwards fourteen years in the Bank of Commerce, New York, whence he removed to Harmony, "Rock Prairie," Wis., and resided there thirteen years ; subsequently he returned and located at Janesville. They also had seven children, only one of whom is reported, viz. : Henry Martyn Hart, born in New York City, Jan. 2d, 1838, married, Oct. 12th, 1858, Harriet Parker. He is an Insurance agent, residing (1874) at Janesville. They have two sons and three daughters.

John Hart, son of Christopher and Mary Hart, was born at Witney, Oxfordshire, Eng., Nov. 16th, 1651, and came to this country with William Penn. He was a Quaker preacher of note, and settled near Philadelphia. He owned one thousand acres of land which he purchased of William Penn, before they left England. He was elected a member of the Assembly for the county of Philadelphia, and took his seat March 12th, 1683. He died at his residence in Warminster, September, 1714, in the 63d year of his age. His widow, Susannah, died Feb. 27th, 1725. In his Will he gave his wife £15 silver money, and all his personal property not already disposed of ; to his son John, he gave two hundred acres, his homestead at Warminster ; and to his son Thomas, he gave two hundred acres. He bequeathed to his son Josiah the two lots in Philadelphia ; and to his daughter Mary, he gave £15 in silver money, and other property ;—she is supposed to have died single. This second John was a useful man, both in Church and State, but not so distinguished as his father before him. John Hart, Jr., was born at Byberry, near Philadelphia, 1684, and was married to Eleanor Crispin, in 1708 ; he seceded from the Quakers, and embraced the Baptists' faith, at the time of the great split in the days of Keith, the agitator. Mr. Hart was patriotic, and held a captain's commission in the militia of Bucks Co., in 1756 ; he was also a deacon in the Southampton Baptist Church. He died in 1763, in the 80th year of his age ; his wife died in 1754, in the 68th year of her age. He left three sons, Joseph, Silas, and Oliver, and one daughter, Edith, living at his death. The eldest son, John, born in 1709, went to Virginia, where, in 1743, he was killed by the accidental discharge of a gun in his own hands.

Joseph Hart became a great patriot, and a distinguished officer, in the days of the revolution,—being best known as Col. Hart; he had the confidence of Gen. Washington through the war, and was very active. He was appointed, in 1784, one of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions of the county, an office which he held till his death, which occurred at Warminster, in 1788, at the age of 72 years; his remains were interred at Southampton, near those of his wife, Elizabeth, who had died only six days previous, aged 74 years.

John Hart, 2d. son of Col. Joseph Hart, born in 1743, at Warminster, the old homestead, became a man of some note; he married, in 1767, Rebecca Rees, who died soon after. He espoused warmly the cause of Independence,—was appointed deputy recorder and treasurer of the county of Bucks, and resided at Newtown, where there were many tories. One evening, while seated at the tea table, some fifteen ruffians rushed into his house, surrounded him, and presenting their pistols at his head, demanded his treasure; after robbing his house, they repaired to his office, broke it open, and took therefrom 735*l.* 17*s.* 9½*d.* in hard money, which belonged to the effective supplies of Bucks county for the year 1781. One of the robbers was subsequently hanged for a greater crime.

He came to Hartford with Mr. Hooker's company in 1635, and was one of the original proprietors of that place. His house-lot was on the west side of what is now called Front Street, near where Morgan Street crosses it, and there is a tradition that the town was called from the ford he discovered and used in crossing the Connecticut River at a low stage of the water, and so from Hart's Ford it soon became Hartford, from a natural and easy transition. Tradition further says that as he and others were on a hunting excursion on Talcott Mountain, they discovered the Farmington River Valley, then inhabited by the Tunxis, a powerful tribe of Indians. The meadows were probably then cleared, and waving with grass and Indian corn. Such lands were then much needed and coveted by the settlers, who soon—probably as soon as 1640—made a bargain with the Indians, and settled among them with their cattle. They still continued, however, connected with the settlement at Hartford, attended public worship, and perhaps wintered there, until about 1645, when the town was incorporated by the name of Farmington, from the excellent farms there.* About this time Mr. Roger Newton, a student in theology with Rev. Thomas Hooker, whose daughter he married, began to preach for them, and in 1652 was ordained their pastor. Stephen Hart was one of the seven pillars of the church, and was chosen their first deacon. The other pillars were Rev. Roger Newton, pastor, John Cole (Cowles), John Bronson, Robert Porter, Thomas Judd, and Thomas Thompson.

Stephen Hart appears to have taken the lead in the settlement among the Indians in Farmington, and purchased a large tract on the border of the present town of Avon, and known to this day by the name of Hart's Farm.† He was one of the first representatives in 1647, and continued, with one exception, for fifteen sessions, until 1655, and once in 1660. In short, no man in the town was more active, influential, and useful. His house-lot, which was four or five times as large as any other, was on the west side of Main Street, in the village, opposite the meeting-house, and contained fifteen acres, extending from Mill Lane to the stone store south. This large house-lot was granted to Deacon Stephen Hart as an inducement to erect and continue a mill on the premises, to be perpetuated and kept in motion. The mill was erected originally by the Bronsons, to whom, as a consideration, was granted, viz: a tract of eighty acres, on the Pequabuk River, now known as the "Eighty Acre." The south part of this house-lot he gave to his son John, and the north part to his son Thomas. Thomas gave it to his son Josiah, and it descended to the wife of Roger Hooker, his only surviving child, and to her only son, Thomas Hart Hooker, who sold it to Samuel Deming. The Demings and their descendants hold it to this day—1874. These lots and lands, in some respects, are the most desirable and valuable of any in the old town of Farmington. He was a representative to the General Court of Connecticut in 1647, and most of the succeeding years to 1660, from the town of Farmington. His widow, Margaret, gave her property to her sons, John and Arthur Smith, and daughter, Elizabeth Thompson. She had grandchildren—Elizabeth, John, and Ann Thompson.

Deacon Hart's Will was dated March 16th, 1682-3. He mentions the farm he formerly gave his three sons, John, Stephen, and Thomas, viz: one-half to John, one-fourth to Steven, and one-fourth to Thomas.

They resided in Farmington, where he was made a freeman by the General Court, at their May session, 1654. Sarah, his wife, joined the church at Farmington, Oct. 19th, 1653; he was admitted to the church April 2d, 1654. He was one of the first settlers of Tunxis, and bought his house lot of the original owners, and among the list of the eighty-four proprietors of 1672, is numbered the "Estate of John Hart." At the October session of the General Court, in 1660, a committee was raised to examine "Thirty Mile Island," with the view of settlement, when John Hart, of Farmington, was elected one of said committee. His sad and untimely death occurred on this wise, viz.: his house, which was located near the center of the village, was fired in the night by Indians, and he and all his family, with the exception of his eldest son, John, who was that night at Nod, or Northington, since called Avon, looking after the stock on a farm they owned there, perished in the flames. What aggravated the public calamity was the burning of the town records, at the same time. The General Court made diligent search among the Tunxis tribe for the incendiaries, but this neither restored life nor records. This fire occurred _____, 1666.

GENERAL SELAH HART, of Kensington, a parish of Berlin, Conn., second son of Nathaniel Hart of the same place, and his wife Abigail (Hooker), born in Kensington, May 23d, 1732, married March 4th, 1756, Mary, born Feb. 18th, 1731-2, daughter of Stephen Cole and his wife Abigail (Hart). She died, when he married second, Dec. 22d, 1763, Ruth, born in Kensington, Oct. 29th, 1742, daughter of Matthew Cole and his second wife Mary (Newell); he had but one child, and that by his first wife, named Mary, and she died young. He lived where now (1869,) Oliver Moore does, in the east part of the parish. He was a magistrate, and held many positions of honor and usefulness in his day. He united with the church in Kensington in 1763, in which he held the office of deacon; and Ruth, his second wife, united with the church in 1771. He was the moderator of the first town meeting held in Berlin, June 13th, 1785, and represented the town of Farmington in the General Assembly, four times. He served the country in the capacity of general during the war of the Revolution, with the exception of two years he was held a prisoner in New York, and with the aid of Roger Hooker, his brigade major, he became conspicuous,—Hooker doing his writing.

Having found the last Will of General Selah Hart among his old papers in Berlin, I transcribe it for the benefit of the readers of this memorial:

In the name of God, Amen. I, Selah Hart, of Berlin, in the County of Hartford, and State of Connecticut, in America, being, through the goodness of God, in health and of a sound mind and memory, considering the uncertainty of life, knowing it is appointed unto all men once to die, do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament, in manner and form as follows: That is to say, first, and principally, I give and recommend my soul to God, who gave it, hoping, through the merits of Jesus Christ, to obtain the forgiveness of all my sins, and to inherit eternal life; and my body I commit to the earth, out of which it was taken, to be decently buried.

I give to my dear wife, Ruth Hart, for her sole use and disposal, my chaise, the whole of my household furniture, one-half of my other movable property which shall remain after my debts are paid. Also, I give to her, during her natural life, the use and improvement of one-half of my real estate, the use of one-half of my dwelling-house at the south end, and one-half of my wood-house and corn house, and also one-half of my barns, to be divided in the following manner: the old barn shall be divided east and west through the ridge, and the new barn north and south through the ridge, she having the use of the south part of the old barn, and the east part of the new barn.

Also, I give to Lucy Hart, the widow of Cyprian Hart, lately deceased, so long as she continues to be his widow, the use of the other half of my dwelling-house, and the privilege of keeping two cows on my farm summer and winter, and so much room in my barns as will be necessary to accommodate them; also, the privilege of taking from my farm the necessary firewood during that time, viz., while she remains said Hart's widow.

Also, I give to Selah Hart, my sword, and the said Selah Hart and Cyprian Hart, sons of Cyprian Hart, lately deceased, all my real estate and what of my movable estate that is not disposed of as above, they paying to each of their four sisters, as they arrive to lawful age, two hundred dollars from my movable estate, if they be able, if not, it is my will that they sell those lands for that purpose which can best be spared. If either Selah or Cyprian Hart, as above mentioned, should die without natural heirs, of his own body begotten, this property here given him shall descend to his surviving brother; if both of them die without an heir of their own body, then this property here given them shall descend to their surviving sisters above mentioned.

If hereafter it shall be thought expedient that either Selah or Cyprian Hart, above mentioned, should have a public education, it is my Will that provision for that purpose shall be made from my property, and that in such case the property thus appropriated shall be counted so much towards his portion.

Also, I give my brother, Noadiah Hart, one hundred dollars, to be paid within one year after my decease.

I likewise constitute my wife, Ruth Hart, and Elijah Hooker, Esq., sole executors of this my last Will and Testament, in witness whereof I hereunto set my hand and seal this 29th day of March, 1806.

Signed, SELAH HART and Seal.

Signed, sealed, published, and declared by the said Selah Hart to be his last Will and Testament, in presence of

Benoni Upson,

Levia Upson,

Levia Upson, 2d.

He died June 10th, 1806, aged 74 years, and was buried in the cemetery a little distance north-west of his dwelling-house. A monument was erected to his memory bearing the following inscription:

GENERAL SELAH HART,
An Officer of the Revolution,
who died

June 10th, 1806, Æ. 74 years.

“Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord.”

His widow, Mrs. Ruth Hart, died Jan. 15th, 1844, aged 101 years 2 months and 16 days, being the oldest person that ever died in that town. Her gravestone bears this inscription:

MRS. RUTH HART,
Wife of General Selah Hart,
Born Oct. 29th, 1742,
Died Jan. 15th, 1844,

Æ. 101 years 2 months and 16 days.

Extraordinary in age, she was not less distinguished by strength of character, correctness of moral principle, and holiness of life.

She adorned the profession of the Gospel during nearly three-quarters of a century.

A friend of God and her species, her memory will triumph over the wrecks of time.

Early in life he was considered by the public as a man of integrity, sagacity, and thoroughness. In the office of constable he was much employed; and in cases where discretion, great bodily strength, and fearlessness of personal danger were requisite, he was the man for the occasion. When the war for Independence came, his person and his property were at the service of his country, and he was in service or in captivity during the greatest part of the time of the war. In 1776, he commanded a regiment, and when Washington evacuated New York, he was cut off and captured by a body of the enemy's forces which had ascended the Hudson River and landed above him. Ignorant and ill-natured people made many remarks on the occasion, but it was never shown but that he understood his duty, and well performed it. He was stationed in order to cover the retreat of the main body, and if he had been less faithful and less brave, he might have abandoned his post and perhaps have escaped captivity as many others did. The cruelties and miseries which prisoners suffered in New York in those days, have been often told and recorded, and this Col. Hart suffered nearly two years, during the most of which time his wife knew not whether he was living or dead, and when he did return, it was to her as if he had risen from the grave. Subsequently he commanded a brigade until the close of the war. He then resumed his avocation of farming, and the condition of his lands, fences, buildings, utensils, crops, and animals, showed that the owner and master was sagacious and thorough.

Probably no farm near his produced so much at so great a profit, in proportion to the acres used, as did his. He thought more of good crops and the profitable use of labor, than of a large number of acres under partial culture. As he was a man of but few words, some supposed him to be lacking in social feeling, but they were in a mistake. He loved society, and but few would more readily discern and feel what should move human sympathy, or more certainly show it in action. He was hospitable to friends and wayfarers, and he considered the unfortunate and the poor, both to relieve their present necessities and devise for their future welfare. He took a very young colored child to bring up, named Jack, who was legally a slave, but Jack's living, clothing, and education were better than the average of the white lads in the vicinity enjoyed, and when the lad became twenty-one years of age, the master said to him: "The law would give me four years more of your service, but I think you have a right to be free, and you are at liberty to go away, or stay with me and receive wages." Gen. Hart was singularly thoughtful and active for the public weal. The interests of the town he made his own in some sort, as when he was its Treasurer, in cases of deficiency, his own funds would be forthcoming in order that the business and the credit of the town might not suffer. As a member of the ecclesiastical society, it was said of him after his death, and by those who reviled him while living, "We have lost the main stud of the building." He had an uncompromising regard for wholesome laws and sound morals, and as a magistrate, he was a "terror to evil doers:" as might be expected, almost all manner of evil was spoken against him, yet but few gave stronger evidence of desiring to see all others prosperous and happy in a course of well doing. And there was no want of proof that there was entire confidence in his wisdom and uprightness, and that the interests, the persons, and the property of the friendless and the orphan were considered safe with him. As a religious man, his creed was conformed, as he believed, to the holiness and the simplicity of the Word of God. Men have invented many things as tests of religious character and practice, but with Selah Hart it was sufficient that all others and himself should fear God and keep his commandments. At the beginning and at the close of each day, he with all his household appeared before his and their God, to worship Him in prayer, and to learn His will from His Word. And he considered it as a part of his religious duty so to order every other concern as that nothing should interfere with the stated duties which he considered were owing from himself and each member of his household to their God; and so there was no confusion or loss of time: and in this he was greatly assisted by his wife, a woman of uncommon intelligence, stability, and piety. He was many years a member of the church in Kensington, and one of its deacons until his decease. He died June 10th, 1806,  $\text{\pounds}$ . 74 years, leaving an example which, in most things, it is believed it would be useful, safe, and honorable to follow.

EMMA HART, better known as MRS. WILLARD, of Troy, the sixteenth child of her father, Capt. Samuel Hart, of Kensington, and the ninth by his second wife, Lydia (Hinsdale), was born Feb. 23d, 1787, at Berlin, Conn. A brilliant mind and high aspirations were developed in the child. She taught a common school at seventeen; an academy in Berlin at nineteen; at twenty was preceptress at Westfield Academy, Mass.; was released by the trustees to accept a position at the head of the Female Academy, Middlebury, Vt. In 1809, at the age of twenty-two, she married Dr. John Willard, and opened a boarding school.

After five years, she formed the plan and design of extensively improving female education, chiefly by inducing some state government to establish a female seminary for liberal yet feminine education, and committed her plan to writing. She introduced studies into her school before untaught to females. She had five young ladies in her school of seventy from Waterford, N. Y., to which place she was invited, their leading men to present. 1818, her plan to the legislature of New York. They were to do it, if Gov. Clinton approved: he did so, and brought forward the subject in his message.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard spent the winter in Albany, and presented her plan as a memorial to the legislature. It was approved, and the first law ever made by any legislature to improve the female sex by education, was passed, by which all the legally incorporated female academies in the state have since and do now receive a share of the literature fund. The legislature also incorporated a female seminary at Waterford. In the spring of 1819, after two years, she removed to Troy, as no building was provided for the school at Waterford. The corporation of Troy voted $4,000, and made a fortunate purchase of the ground where the eastern part of the seminary now stands. Further sums were raised, and the school thus founded went on from year to year, increasing in numbers and facilities, until some four hundred pupils had access to nearly the science and literature of the colleges. Many of her methods of teaching, and her illustrations, were peculiar to herself, and would be described in detail had we space. These, however, can be found in her published works.

Dr. Willard died in 1825, leaving the entire responsibility of the school in Mrs. Willard's hands. Its popularity increased so that pupils came from all parts of the Union and Canada, and even from the West Indies. She thus deservedly attained the highly distinguished honor of being the first and most successful female educator in America. In 1838, she resigned her charge to her son and his wife, that she might the better publish her unfinished literary works, and enjoy her travels in Europe. Very interesting biographical sketches of her may be found in Everest's "Poets of Connecticut," and "Appleton's Encyclopedia."

Among the productions of her pen, the best known is the beautiful hymn, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," and in educational literature, her "Historical Series." Her published works are numerous, and some of them of high note and merit.

Thus, in brief, the history of the brilliant girl, Emma Hart, culminated in the distinguished Mrs. Willard, of Troy Female Seminary. This was her mission and specialty—this was her forte: here she spent her best days, and here she died at a good old age, Friday, April 15th, 1870, aged 83 years, 1 month, 22 days.*

Their child, John Hart Willard, principal of Troy Seminary, had children, Emma W., John H., Sarah H., Mary T., and Harriet P. The beautiful profile engraving of his honorable mother which embellishes the opposite page, is kindly furnished by him. He has my thanks.

* She was a great student in chemistry and natural philosophy, and it was these sciences which led her to the great discovery "The motive power in the circulation of the blood." She, in 1837, published a work on the subject, and in 1847, another on "Respiration, and its effects."

100.

Berlin, Conn., Troy, N. Y., Baltimore, Md.

ALMIRA HART, better known as MRS. LINCOLN and MRS. PHELPS, was the seventeenth child of Capt. Samuel Hart, of Kensington, and the tenth by his second wife, Lydia Hinsdale, was born July 13th, 1793, at Berlin, Conn. In the following sketch, I transcribe from a letter of her sister, Mrs. Willard, to some extent. She says:

Almira was a pupil of mine for the three years I taught in Berlin, after which, at an early age, she taught a common school. She was subsequently with Mrs. Willard at Middlebury, Vt., and, about eighteen, at the Female Academy in Pittsfield, Mass., under the excellent instruction of a maternal cousin, Miss Nancy Hinsdale. Returning to Middlebury, after having taught for a time a select school in Middletown, Conn., she remained a while with Mrs. Willard, and then took charge of a female academy at Sandy Hill, N. Y. Here she developed the extraordinary talents which have marked her subsequent career. After two years, she married, Oct. 5th, 1817, Simeon Lincoln, Jr., of New Britain, Conn., a printer by trade and occupation, and an editor of a literary paper at Hartford, Conn. They had Jane, who was educated at Troy. Emma Willard, married a lawyer of Reading, Penn. Mr. Lincoln died Oct. 4th, 1823, and she engaged at once in teaching a winter school near her home, although having two small children on her hands. In the spring, she entered Mrs. Willard's Seminary as a teacher, having taken up the Latin language evenings (or nights) of the past winter—her progress was remarkable. Mrs. Willard gave her the department of natural science. About four years after this, she wrote her work on Botany, being then vice-principal of Troy Seminary. This was a decided success, and still holds its place as the first on the subject: it has afforded her an emolument, and made the publisher rich. While Mrs. Willard was in Europe, Mrs. Lincoln managed the Troy Seminary as principal with great ability, and procured of the corporation of Troy an important addition to the grounds. In 1831, Mrs. Lincoln became the wife of Hon. John Phelps, of Vermont, a distinguished jurist and eminent statesman. She then went to reside at Guilford, and subsequently at Brattleboro, Vt. Here she pursued her literary studies, and published a work on Natural Philosophy, and an abridgment of the same; a work on Chemistry, and Chemistry for Beginners; a small work on Geology; a small work entitled Botany for Beginners; a work for the Harpers' Family Library, named "Caroline Westerly;" and published a popular octavo entitled, the Fireside Friend,—made up in part of her Saturday Lectures to the pupils of Troy. In 1838, Mrs. Phelps, with the approbation of her husband, accepted an invitation to become the head of a female seminary at West Chester, Pa., which seemed then to promise great usefulness; but opposition to religious instruction led her to take a more private establishment at Rahway, N. J.; from which, in 1841, she was invited by the Bishop of Maryland, and trustees of the Patapsco Institute, to found a diocesan church school for girls. Here she labored fifteen years, and sustained Episcopal service and worship, and educated as many as one thousand pupils, among whom were about one hundred and fifty beneficiaries, educated for teachers. This was the great and crowning educational work of Mrs. Phelps. She retired from that field in 1856. The death of Mr. Phelps had occurred in 1849. She takes an interest in the great questions of the day, especially in education and the social condition of women, deeply deploring the agitations caused by restless innovators on the established order of society. She resides in Baltimore; has been a communicant of the Episcopal church since 1816, and is now over eighty years of age, in good health and spirits (July, 1874).*

PROFESSOR JOHN SEELY HART, Philadelphia, eldest son of Isaac Hart, of Washington County, Va., and his wife, Abigail (Stone), born January 28th, 1810, at Stockbridge, Mass., and when he was two years old he went with his father to Pennsylvania. He prepared for college under Dr. Orton, of Wilkesbarre, and graduated at Princeton in 1830, when he took charge of the academy in Natchez, Miss., one year, and in 1831 he entered the Theological Seminary at Princeton, and was appointed tutor in college in 1832, and adjunct professor of ancient languages in 1836. He was licensed as a probationer for the gospel ministry in 1836, but subsequently returned his license to the presbytery, by whom it was cancelled, he having determined to devote his life to the profession of teaching. In the fall of 1836 he became the proprietor of the Edge Hill Boarding School, near Princeton, which institution he conducted until December, 1841. In September, 1842, he was appointed principal of the Central High School of Philadelphia. He was brought into the church at the early age of fourteen, mainly through the influence of his mother and Sabbath School teacher. He married April 21st, 1836, Amelia C. Norford, of Princeton. He was for a time principal of the State Normal School of New Jersey, but resigned February 7th, 1871. Thus Professor Hart, from the peculiar structure of his mind and taste, became one of the greatest educators of the age. From his constant contact with children and youth he could adapt his labors and writings to their wants and necessities.

Southington, Burlington, Conn.

SIMEON HART, Southington, sixth son of Deacon Thomas Hart, of the same place, and his wife, Anna (Stanley), born December 29th, 1735, at Southington; baptized January 4th, 1736, by Rev. Jeremiah Curtiss; married September 14th, 1756, Sarah Sloper, daughter of Robert, and his wife, Experience (Johnson), born October 13th, 1737. Mr. Hart's residence stood some sixty rods north of the almshouse, on the west side of the road, the house having long since been torn away, and the ground leveled. About three rods south stood another house, which was torn away a few years since, part of the chimney and cellar still remaining. About ten feet north of the last-mentioned house was the well, now covered with boards, which served for both houses.

* Her mother, Mary (Farrington), was from Dedham, Mass., and was granddaughter of Micah Palmer, of Branford, and his wife, Damaris Whitehead.

Across the middle of the well, running west from the highway, was the dividing line between the proprietors. He sold his place, consisting of land, dwelling-house, barn, and fruit trees, to Philip M. Farnsworth, for £100, by deed, dated February 14th, 1774. In the deed it is described as being in the south division, east tier of lots, eleventh lot in number, laid out on the right of Captain John Stanley, and lying west of a three-rod highway, beginning in the highway and running west across the middle of the well about twenty-four rods, thence north to land of John Curtiss, bounded east on highway, south on Ichabod Andrews, west on Jonathan Bronson, and north on John Curtiss. Soon after disposing of his farm Mr. Hart removed to Burlington, where his eighth child died, August 10th, 1774, and was buried at the North Cemetery, Bristol, where his five youngest children have tomb-stones. He was active in forming the church at Burlington, and was one of its first deacons, which office he held until excused on account of feeble health. He was justice of the peace for several years. When Bristol, including Burlington, was made a town in 1785, he was their first representative to the state legislature. He lived an eminently useful life, and died instantly, January 12th, 1800, his wife having died the day previous. They were both buried in the same grave, and the inscription on their tomb-stone in the cemetery west of the meeting-house in Burlington, reads thus:

“Here lieth the bodies of Deacon Simeon Hart,
and Sarah, his wife;
She died January 11th, 1800,
Aged 62, and he died
January 12th, 1800, Aged 64.
They were eminent for Piety,
Charity, and Christian Morality.

“Inexorable death, thou sweep’st away
The kind, compassionate, and just,
All flesh by thee is turned to clay,
And moulders into common dust.
Here ends thy reign, the soul shall rise,
(If Grace the heart hath well refined,)
Shall join the chorus of the skies,
In Hallelujahs to the Eternal Mind.”

Preston, Conn.

REV. LEVI HART, Preston, Conn., seventh son of Deacon Thomas Hart, of Southington, and his wife, Anna (Stanley), born March 30th, 1738, at Southington, Conn.: baptized August 2d, 1738, by Rev. J. Curtiss, pastor. He graduated at Yale College in 1760, and studied theology with Dr. Bellamy, of Bethlehem, Conn. He settled in the ministry November 4th, 1762, in that part of Preston, Conn., now called Griswold. He married, 1762, Rebecca, daughter of Rev. Dr. Bellamy, and his wife, Frances (Sherman), born September 11th, 1747, at Cheshire, Conn. She died December 24th, 1788, aged 41 years, when he second married December 4th, 1790, the widow of Nathaniel Baccus, of Norwich. He died October 27th, 1808, aged 70 years.

In the year 1800 the college of New Jersey honored him with the degree of D. D. He was a member of the corporation of Dartmouth College from 1784 to 1788, and of Yale College from 1794 to the year preceding his death. Of the intimate friends of Rev. Mr. Hart next to Dr. Bellamy perhaps, was Dr. Hopkins, of Newport, R. I., whose funeral sermon he preached, December 23d, 1803.

The Connecticut Missionary Society owes much to the sympathy and labors of Mr. Hart in its origin and progress. Indeed he was a missionary himself as early as 1769, and with the consent of his people he made a journey into the district of Maine, to preach to the destitute, and again in 1795 he performed a tour of missionary labor at the north, towards Canada. During the great struggle of the country for independence his sympathy was with our army, and his patriotism led him to visit the camp at Roxbury, and preach twice on the Sabbath to Colonel Parsons' regiment. In 1783 he delivered a discourse to an assembly convened at Fort Griswold, Groton, in commemoration of those gallant men who fell there in defence of their country, Colonel Ledyard at their head. But the chief excellence of Mr. Hart appeared as a gospel minister, and pastor to his flock at Griswold, and the savor of his good name has extended down to this date, being spoken of as one of the greatest and best men of the past generation. His funeral was attended by all the neighboring clergymen, and an excellent sermon was preached by Rev. Joel Benedict, of Plainfield, from the words—"Your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, do they live for ever?"—Zechariah 1: 5. A very large and attentive concourse of people hung upon the lips of the preacher while he described some of the prominent features of the character of the deceased, and evidenced that their hearts affectionately responded to the justice of his delineation. His remains were deposited by the side of a deceased wife, at whose grave he had erected a plain stone, with this inscription:

ALICE COGSWELL HART, Norwich, Conn., second daughter of Rev. Levi Hart, of Preston, Conn., and his wife, Rebecca (Bellamy), born August 23d, 1772, at Preston; married November 27th, 1794, Calvin Goddard, of Norwich, Conn. She died May 3d, 1832, aged 60 years, in the lively faith of a Christian. Her distinguished husband thus speaks of her: "My connection with this family," (Rev. Dr. Hart's,) adds Judge Goddard, "has furnished me with a great proportion of my happiness during a long life; and as well from a knowledge of her Christian life, as from the circumstances of her triumphant death, I can not doubt she was removed to a mansion 'not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.' Our severe loss has been her gain. My children, under God, owe much of what they are to their dear mother, and I trust the influence of her character is not yet lost upon my grandchildren."

Judge Goddard died May 2d, 1842. He graduated at Dartmouth College in 1786, in the class with his brother-in-law, William Sherman Hart. He was one of the most distinguished civilians in Connecticut, being judge of the Superior Court, assistant, &c. His attention was called, among the first, to the moral bearing of lotteries, and, after thorough investigation, brought all his influence to bear against the system, until it was abolished in this state. He then turned his attention to the moral bearings of other great questions of the day, and lent his influence, with that of such men as Judges Sherman, Daggett, Day, and Williams, in favor of moral reformation. He thus prepared the way for an investigation of the bearings of the great moral truths of the Bible on personal character, which resulted in the union with the church of so many of the distinguished civilians of the state of Connecticut, twenty-five or thirty years since. Judge Goddard had six children, "all," he said in 1840, "the blessed comforts of my old age," viz:

1, Charles Backus, who graduated at Yale College in 1814, and is a lawyer in Zanesville, Ohio.

2, Alice Hart, married Asa Child, Esq.

3, George Calvin, who graduated at Yale College in 1820, and is a lawyer in New York.

4, Julia Tracy, who remained with her father—"the comfort of my old age."

5, James Burrall, who lived with his father.

6, Levi Hart, born on the day of Dr. Hart's death. He graduated at Yale College in 1828, and was admitted to the bar. He married Mary Woodbridge Perkins, and went to Ohio, but returned, and settled on a farm in Salem, which his wife inherited.

Mr. Hart is an active and successful business man, owning a foundry and machine-shop, said to be the largest private enterprise of the kind in the state of North Carolina. The firm is known as Hart & Bailey. He also has a vineyard, from which a superior kind of wine is made, called the Scuppernong Champagne. It contains fifty acres, and has 1,000 vines. He is thoroughly practical, and prefers zeal and worth to mere outside display. He is a good father and a respected citizen, and has held positions of honor and trust; one of those of whom we say—"his word is as good as his bond." The family is Presbyterian. Mr. Hart was opposed to secession, and was a Unionist in the late war, but was not an extremist. He lost heavily by the war, but has since felt it his duty to practice moderation and forbearance. He has furnished an engraving, by Sartain, to embellish this work, for which he has my thanks. It is on the opposite page. DEACON SIMEON HART, Farmington, fifth son of Simeon Hart, of Burlington, and his first wife, Mary (Warner), born November 17th, 1795, at Burlington, Conn. He graduated at Yale College, September 10th, 1823, and located at Farmington, Conn., as a teacher of the Academic School. His residence is just south of the Congregational Church, on the same side of the street. He married December 9th, 1824, Abigail Maria, only daughter of Asa Andrews, of Farmington, and his first wife, Hannah (Burnett), of Berlin, born November 14th, 1798, at Farmington. She died August 23d, 1838, aged 39 years, 9 months, 7 days, when second he married November 6th, 1839, Abby Eliza, daughter of Reuben Langdon, of Hartford, and his wife, Patience (Gilbert), of Hebron, born May 20th, 1807, at New London.

Early in life Mr. Hart was interested in the instruction of children and youth, and taught school while fitting himself for college. When he graduated he had in view the gospel ministry, but Providence seemed to direct him to become an educator. After some years of hard and successful labor in the public academy of Farmington, having many applications from abroad to take pupils, he gave up his public school, and enlarged his operations by establishing a private boarding school for boys, and associating himself with his nephew and former pupil, Mr. Edward Lucas Hart, in the enterprise. This boarding school soon became popular and successful. Mr. Hart became a member of the Congregational Church at Farmington in 1825, his first wife in 1818, and his second wife in 1841. He was chosen deacon there in 1827, was a representative of Farmington to the General Assembly several times, was a magistrate, and a superintendent of the Sunday School, and thus made himself actively useful in every good work. He was town clerk after the decease of Horace Cowles, Esq. He originated the savings bank of the town, and was its first secretary. He originated this Memorial, and diligently labored on it to the end of his life, which occurred April 30th, 1853, aged 57 years.

REV. EDSON HART, Ohio and Kentucky, eldest son of Obed Hart, of Avon, and his first wife, Elizabeth (Edson), born April 12th, 1796, at Northington, now Avon, Conn.; married October 15th, 1821, Helen Priestly, of New Brunswick, N. J., born April 11th, 1796. He was educated at Yale College, and became a very laborious minister of the gospel. His wife died at New Albany, Ind., April 4th, 1851, aged 55 years, when second he married Miss Martha A. Day, of Morristown, N. J. He died at his home near Louisville, Ky., September 19th, 1867, aged 71 years. The following appeared in the Louisville Journal of September 26th, 1867:

"On Thursday, the 19th instant, the Rev. Edson Hart died at his residence at Baird's Station, Oldham County, Ky. Mr. Hart was born at Farmington, Conn., on the 12th day of April, 1796. He was educated at Yale College, made a profession of his faith in Christ while quite young, entered the ministry in the Presbyterian Church, and continued in the constant and active labors of that sacred calling until partially laid aside by bronchitis. The scene of his earliest labors in the ministry was among the Indians, in the state of Michigan. From thence he removed to Western Ohio, and after several years labor there, removed to Erie County, Penn., where he preached to the two churches of Springfield and Gerard for a number of years. His next field of labor was at Morganfield, Union County, Ky. Here chiefly through his agency, as we understand, a high school was established, in which he felt a deep interest, using his personal influence and efforts in the north to raise funds for its support. He settled at Morganfield about the year 1838, or 1839, and remained there six or eight years. He afterwards spent some years at New Albany, Ind. His health failing he went to New Orleans, and became an agent of the American Bible Society, where he labored until the war interrupted, and in 1862 he came north, and early in 1865 settled at Baird's Station, a quiet place, where he hoped to spend his days in peace. His earnest prayers and exhortations in our little prayer meetings are remembered with a tender interest. He was a man of earnest piety and strong faith. His last illness was lingering, but there were no bands in his death. Peace, hope, and trust, made his death-bed as calm and glorious as the setting sun."

His half brother, Seth Hart, Esq., of New York City, writing of him to the compiler, says of him: "If ever there was a man who sincerely believed in the doctrines he professed, and who truly loved his Saviour and his teachings, it was the late Rev. Edson Hart. It may be said of him as of Noah—'He walked with God.'"

His captain, Samuel S. Woodruff, thus speaks of him in a letter published in the Southington Mirror of July 1st, 1864:

"It was at this juncture (writing of the battle) that my noble young friend and clerk, David W. Hart, fell by my side, mortally wounded. I asked him where he was hit. He replied that he did not know. He had no sense of pain, but was numb all over. I soon found he was pierced by a minie-ball, and told him he must be carried off. He reluctantly consented, and four of his comrades put him on a blanket. The balls were flying thick and fast among us. He cast his last look at the colors, and his last words to us were—'Boys, I hate to leave you; fight on for the flag.' His bearers soon found a stretcher, and next an ambulance, and then they returned to their company. He was a noble and promising young man, a good soldier, and a devoted Christian, a severe loss to me, and to the company, and to the regiment, and to our country: but this is not to be compared to the crushing blow which falls upon his dear and bereaved family. He lived just one week after he was wounded, suffered but little, and talked cheerfully and hopefully. The ball passed through the spine, thus paralyzing all the lower parts of the body."

He died of his wound in the hospital near Resaca, Ga., May 22d, 1864, and a sermon on the occasion of his death was preached in the Congregational Church, Bristol, Conn., July 3d, 1864, by Rev. Leveret Griggs, printed in pamphlet form, 12 pages, by David B. Moseley, Hartford, 1864.

Berlin, Conn.

MAJOR JONATHAN HART, Kensington, Conn., second son of Deacon Ebenezer Hart, of the same place, and his wife, Elizabeth (Lawrence), born at Kensington, Conn., in 1744, and graduated at Yale College in 1768. He went to New Jersey, and taught school for several years. He returned to Kensington, and entered into trade with the minister of the place, with whom he had a serious quarrel, and was thrown into jail, where he remained until the revolution. He joined the army, was in the public service from 1775 to 1791, and was slain by the Indians at St. Clair's defeat, in the autumn of 1791, at which time he held the military rank of major. He married in 1777, Abigail Riley, who, after her husband's decease, married second, Rev. Cyprian Strong, of Chatham, Conn., August 3d, 1797. Major Hart left one child only, who married, and died childless.

At probate court, Farmington, Conn., July 5th, 1792, administration was granted to Abigail Hart on the estate of Jonathan Hart, late of Berlin, deceased, and June 4th, 1794, she was appointed guardian to Everlin Hart, a minor of said town of Berlin, and in said probate district of Farmington. The following biographical sketch is copied from the Connecticut Gazette, published by John M. Niles and J. T. Pease, in 1819, at Hartford, Conn.:

"Major Jonathan Hart was a native of this town, (Berlin.) He was a gallant and distinguished officer, and one of the victims of the unfortunate defeat of General St. Clair, November 4th, 1791. His life and those of his command were literally offered a sacrifice for the safety of the rest of the army. When all were in confusion and dismay Major Hart was ordered to charge the enemy with the bayonet, with a view to facilitate a retreat, or rather a flight, to the shattered remains of the army. This charge was made with gallantry and spirit, under circumstances which language is too feeble to describe—the desolation of the place, the confusion of the scene, and the whoop and yells of a savage foe flushed with victory and thirsting for blood, the general consternation which prevailed, and the groans of the dying in every direction. But the intrepid major and almost every man of his party were killed in the desperate enterprise, and their bones were left to bleach upon the borders of the waters of the Wabash, the dreary abode of wild beasts, and of savage men more wild than they."

While Major Hart was marching up and down the rivers of Ohio, and perambulating the country as a soldier, he had a good opportunity to observe the soil, climate, and value of the lands with reference to the claims of Connecticut for the reserve, and the commissioners who had the location of those claims in charge wisely availed themselves of his knowledge. He wrote some thirty letters to his friend, Major William Judd, of Farmington, on the subject, and these letters are still in good condition, preserved by the posterity of Major Judd, who reside in the city of New Britain in 1875. They are interesting, but too lengthy for this work. They have been in Ohio and copied.

DEACON ELIJAH HART, JR., New Britain, Conn., eldest son of Deacon Elijah Hart, of Kensington and New Britain, Conn., and his wife, Abigail (Goodrich), born September 26th, 1735, in Kensington. He united with the church there in 1757, came to New Britain with his parents, and became one of the constituent members of Dr. Smalley's church there, April 19th, 1758, when the church was organized. He married Sarah Gilbert, daughter of Ebenezer, and his wife, Mercy (Cowles), born May 11th, 1737. He first located in the south part of Hart Quarter, where Horace Hart lived, and after him Levi O. Smith, but built a large house near the mills, and September 10th, 1793, he deeded the south part to his son, Elijah, third of the name in as many generations. He was a man of strictly puritanical habits, stern virtue, great diligence, and economy. He was a plain farmer, with a large family and large property. He was chosen deacon, June 1st, 1780, which office he held for twenty years. His business was all laid aside at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, by himself, workmen, and servants, his face shaved, his long boots brushed, and his cows milked before sunset. His best boots would last him seven years, and his best surt-out coat twenty years. He led the singing in church many years, having a grand voice, and good musical taste for that age. He died December 10th, 1800, aged 66 years. His widow died September 22d, 1809, aged 73 years.

Wethersfield, Conn., Marietta, Ohio.

DR. JOSIAH HART, New Britain, Conn., fourth son of Deacon Elijah Hart, of Kensington and New Britain, and his wife, Abigail (Goodrich), born April 28th, 1742, in Kensington. He prepared for college under Rev. Dr. Norris, and graduated at Yale College in 1762. He studied medicine with Dr. Potter, of Wallingford, became a physician, and was a surgeon in the army of the revolution. He married in 1765, Abigail Sluman, of Stonington, Conn., and settled as a physician, at Wethersfield, on Broad Street, where Simeon Hale resided in 1874, which town he represented in the legislature several times. His wife died June 4th, 1777, at Wethersfield, of small pox, when second he married March 25th, 1778, Abigail Harris, of Wethersfield, widow of Thomas Harris, and daughter of Joshua Robbins. He removed to her place on Harris Hill, a little south of the village. He was chosen deacon of the church at Wethersfield, April 17th, 1793. His second wife was a descendant of John Robbins, one of the first settlers of Wethersfield, and a blood relation on the mother's side to the celebrated Miles Standish. She died August 8th, 1796, at Wethersfield, when Dr. Hart removed to Marietta, Ohio, where his two sons had settled early in life. Here he continued his avocation as physician, and married third, Miss Anna Moulton, a maiden lady of Newburyport, Mass. At the formation of the Congregational Church in Marietta he was elected deacon, which office he filled several years. In person Dr. Hart was below the medium size, but well formed, with a mild, pleasing, and intelligent countenance. In his manners he was very gentlemanly and kind, exhibiting a true Christian spirit in his intercourse with his fellow-men. In 1811, having become too aged for practice, he removed to a farm in Lowell, Ohio, on the Muskingum River, some ten miles from Marietta, where he died of spotted fever, August, 1812, aged 70 years. His widow died a few hours after him, and both were buried the same day.

NOTE.—After the death of his first wife Dr. Hart removed to the house of his second wife, on Harris Hill, a place now occupied and owned by the Harris family, where I found an old ledger in the handwriting of Dr. Hart, in which his autograph is on several pages of the book. The oldest date found was 1777, and the latest was 1799. Here are charges of his visits and services as physician, to the people of Wethersfield, Newington, Berlin, Stepney, (now Rocky Hill,) and to other places more remote, embracing a period of some twenty years of active labor. The book is somewhat mutilated, but is still a precious relic of a good and worthy ancestor.

Stonington, Conn.

REV. IRA HART, Stonington, Conn., eldest son of Jonathan Hart, of Paris, Herkimer County, N. Y., and his wife, Mary (Coe), born September 18th, 1771, at Farmington, Bristol Society, Conn. He united with the church of Yale College in 1795, where he graduated in 1797, studied theology with President Dwight, and in November, 1798, was ordained pastor of the church at Middlebury, Conn. He married, December, 1798, Maria Sherman, daughter of John, and granddaughter of Hon. Roger Sherman, of New Haven, who signed the Declaration of Independence. She died September 21st, 1857, and lacked but nine days of being 83 years old. The following is from her pen:

“‘His natural temperament was ardent,’ in the language of his friend, the writer of his obituary. By an amount of personal exertion which few have ever made, and in prospect of pecuniary embarrassment, which would have dismayed a mind less resolved, he carried himself through a collegiate course, and graduated with high reputation. In the personal friendship and respect of the late President Dwight he ever held a distinguished place.”

Three seasons of special revival of religion were enjoyed under his ministry in Middlebury. The first occurred in 1799, and resulted in large additions to the church, an account of which appears in the Connecticut Evangelical Magazine, Volume III., 64th and 102d pages, and lately re-published by President Tyler, of East Windsor, one of his spiritual children, and who fitted with him for college. He was dismissed from that people, April, 1809, in the midst of an uncommon religious inquiry, especially among the youth, for daring to reprove sin in an aggravated case, the parties being wealthy, and of high standing in society, to the grief of many of his friends. During the summer following he supplied the pulpit in North Stonington, and in the autumn of the same year he received a unanimous call to be pastor over the church and society in Stonington Borough. He was installed on the 6th of December. For twenty years he continued to discharge the duties of his office, almost without interruption, until within two weeks of his death, which occurred October 29th, 1829. As a preacher he was earnest and popular. He was very ready, no exigency finding him unfurnished with appropriate thoughts and language, many of his best efforts being extempore. He was successful, referring only to the last scene of his labors, the stability, union, and strength of a society that had previously languished from the want of a regular ministry for several years alone furnishing ample testimony. In 1822 sixty were added to the church, and some were added nearly every year of his ministry. As a pastor we have room to mention only one prominent trait in his character. He was distinguished for tenderness and sympathy towards the sick and bereaved, and was rendered more so by the loss of his son in 1819—Charles Theodore, of beloved memory—a youth whom his classmates in college will long remember as the most amiable of their number, and as a candidate for the very first collegiate honors, and concerning whom his marble says truly, “of great promise and of hopeful piety.” Though this loss deeply wrung the father’s heart with anguish, yet the man of God triumphed over the feelings of the father, and as he closed the eyes of his son, he said with true Christian dignity, “the will of the Lord be done.” I will add, like Leigh Richmond he mourned over this child of his fondest hopes to the day of his death. It eminently gratified him to be a “son of consolation” to the bereaved, and this trait greatly endeared him to his people. The remote occasion of his death was a severe contusion in his side, received by a fall from his carriage in the middle of September, 1829. He was confined to the house only two weeks. Early in his confinement he said, as if anticipating the result, “Now I want dying grace, and I have it.” Subsequently, of a Saviour supreme and divine he said: “Here is firm footing; here is solid rock. With Hooker I will say, ‘I am going to receive mercy.’” To his wife he said, "Here is a precious promise for you—I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.' Take it: it is yours: you will need it. I have indeed found abundant need of it, and it has been literally fulfilled in my experience." He died suddenly at last, with but momentary pain. He fell "asleep in Jesus," aged 58 years. Affectionate friends among his people have reared a tablet to his memory. He still lives in their affections, and his remembrance is precious to their hearts.

born September 2d, 1778, at New Britain. He was a graduate of Williams College, and was a physician in Durham, N. Y., for thirty years. "Then, as a pioneer, he removed to Marshall. He was a scholar, a patron of education, a supporter of the institutions of the gospel, and a man of virtue and worth." He married April 27th, 1806, Sibil Selden, of Windsor, Conn., and removed from New Britain, Conn., to Durham, N. Y., soon after marriage, and from thence to Marshall, Mich., in July, 1833. He and his wife were members of the Presbyterian Church in Durham. He died at Marshall, September 10th, 1842, aged 64 years. When they removed to Marshall they united with the Congregational Church, and he was elected a deacon, which office he held until his decease. The church was a very feeble one, and he was very active and useful in it. He was in the midst of his activity when taken with his last sickness, and at first expressed great regret that he must leave his work; but it was only a momentary feeling. He almost immediately expressed his perfect resignation to God's will, saying, "God knows best whether he has any more work for me to do." He was sick but a few days, and I always look back to them in his sick room as among the most blessed of my life. I remember repeating at the time those beautiful lines—"The chamber where the good man meets his fate is privileged beyond the common walks of virtuous life, quite in the verge of heaven." His beautiful death was a fit close to such a life.

Plymouth, Conn.

REV. LUTHER HART, Plymouth, Conn., eldest son of David Hart, of Goshen, Conn., and his wife, Hannah (Hudson), of Long Island, born July 27th, 1783, at Goshen, Conn. He learned his father's trade of carpenter, but having a great fondness for books, he was fitted for college by Rev. Alexander Gillett, of Torrington, where his father then lived, and became a member of Mr. Gillett's church. In September, 1803, he entered Yale College, and at once took a high rank; and at his graduation in 1807 he received one of the highest honors of the institution. After a year devoted to teaching at Litchfield South Farms he studied theology with Rev. Ebenezer Porter, at Washington, Conn., graduated at Andover, Mass., and was licensed to preach by the Essex Middle Association of Massachusetts. In September, 1811, he married Minerva, daughter of General Potter, of Plymouth, where he received a call and was ordained the year previous, the sermon on the occasion being preached by his tutor, Rev. Ebenezer Porter. This marriage connection is said to have contributed greatly to his comfort and usefulness. Great accessions were made to the church there in 1812, 1824, 1827, and 1831. Some 500 were added during his ministry. In 1818 he aided in the publication of doctrinal tracts, also in the establishment of the Christian Spectator, and contributed largely to both. On the 18th of April, 1834, he was seized with lung fever, which at first was not deemed alarming, but on the 25th terminated fatally. He passed away in the triumphs of faith. Rev. Noah Porter, of Farmington, preached his funeral sermon, and it was published in the Christian Spectator. The Rev. Laurens P. Hickok, of Auburn, N. Y., says of Mr. Hart: "One of his marked characteristics was an indescribable expression of cheerfulness and hearty good will, diffusing its sweet savor wherever he was, so that his presence and society were always sought." He had a quick and keen discernment of men and things. His intercourse with his church and people was very frank and familiar. His manner of preaching was serious, pungent, and discriminating. His sermons abounded less in long drawn argument, but were exceedingly rich in condensed, sententious thoughts, and concise declarations. He died at Plymouth, April 25th, 1834, aged 51 years. Their only child, Luther Potter, died August 28th, 1829, aged 5 months.

Mr. Hart was a natural mechanic, and took out the first patent for a percussion lock when the old flint lock was given up. This patent is dated February 20th, 1827, and is signed John Quincy Adams, President, Henry Clay, Secretary of State, and William Wirt, Attorney-General. It sets forth that William A. The improvement in those days attracted no little attention, and on the 23d of February the commissioner of patents wrote him a congratulatory letter, in which he said, "I am pleased to find so much genius accompanied with so much morality." He became a member of the Episcopal Church at Fredonia, N. Y., where he resided for a time. From a Newspaper.

"The golden wedding of Deacon Norman Hart and Mrs. Minerva Lee Hart was observed at their residence in New Britain, Conn., on the 8th day of August, 1868. There were present nine persons who were at the wedding fifty years ago, two of whom were brides-maids, and one was groomsman. There were also present the children of Rev. Burdett Hart and Norman Lee Hart, of Philadelphia, and their wives, and Mrs. Ellen H. Wells, of New Britain, and all the grandchildren. For fifty years there had been no death in this family of Deacon Hart. He is the sole survivor of his father's family. An appropriate address was made by Rev. Mr. Perrin, pastor of the First Church in New Britain. Also an address, largely historical, was made by Deacon Alfred Andrews, the historian of New Britain, in which he particularly referred to the good services of prominent ancestors of both families in civil, ecclesiastical, and military affairs. A poem, written by Mrs. Ellen H. Wells for the occasion, was read, as well as a longer one, by Mrs. Almira Hart Lincoln Phelps, of Baltimore. The occasion was one of great interest in New Britain, and one which will be long and pleasantly remembered by all who enjoyed the exercises and festivities of this delightful family re-union. Deacon and Mrs. Hart are in the enjoyment of a ripe and vigorous old age, promising them yet many years of comfort and happiness."

DOCTOR BENJAMIN FRANKLIN HART, Marietta, Washington County, Ohio, fourth son of Deacon Benjamin Hart, of New Britain, Conn., and Watertown, Ohio, and his first wife, Honor (Deming), born January 5th, 1823, at Watertown, Washington County, Ohio. He left home when he was eleven years old, and took the responsibility of caring for himself. Being determined to acquire an education, he worked for $4 per month, went to school winters, and paid his board by doing chores night and morning; but when he became older he paid his expenses by sawing wood and shoveling coal, or any work he could find. He united with the Congregational Church at Harmar, Ohio, April 3d, 1840, at the age of seventeen, and began the study of medicine with his cousin, Dr. Seth Hart, of Harmar, Ohio, but taught school in 1841-2. He worked in a saw-mill one winter, took daguerreotypes for a time, and then worked on a farm, but all the time was studying for his profession. In the fall of 1843 he took his worldly goods, consisting of scanty clothing, one sheet, one blanket, two comfortables, and a few cooking utensils, on the deck of a steamer, and went to Cincinnati. He hired a room in the third story of a house on Vine Street, did his own cooking, washing, and ironing, heard six medical lectures per day, and run in debt for half the lectures. He started for home in the spring of 1844 with $1.50, paid $1 for deck passage to Harmar, and for lack of funds went thirty-six hours without eating, when he landed, and found Dr. Seth Hart very sick. He took care of him and his patients the best he could, and in November went four miles up the Ohio River, to the mouth of the Muskingum, where he began business, soon had a large practice, and in two years had paid all his debts for tuition, horse, house, library, and office. Having a large practice over the Ohio, in Virginia, he relinquished his business in Ohio to his brother, Simeon, and removed to Bull Creek, Wood County, Va., where he remained two years. He married October 19th, 1848, Sally M., daughter of Thomas Alcock, of Marietta, Ohio, and his wife, Sally Holliday (Wells), born December 27th, 1830, near Marietta, and united with the Congregational Church at Harmar, Ohio, in 1855. Dr. Hart removed from Virginia to Harmar in 1849, where he followed the practice of medicine until 1863, when he removed to Marietta. At the breaking out of the rebellion in 1861 he was active in furnishing the Union soldiers with such medicines as they were likely to need; he also saw to the wants of those families whose fathers had gone to the war. In 1862 he spent much time and money in visiting the battle-fields—all gratuitously. He went to Pittsburgh Landing and Shiloh, Tenn., collected as many of the sick and wounded as the boat would accommodate. (some 300,) brought them to Cincinnati, and returned again for more. Thus he spent some months in visiting Gettysburg, Frederick City, Baltimore, and Washington. He was assistant surgeon in pursuit of the rebel general Morgan, appointed by Governor Brough, with rank of major. His face is represented on the opposite page. In 1875 he is still following his profession in Marietta. Mrs. Hart is a woman of intelligence, energy, and benevolence, and an artist as well as a good housewife. She is interested in mission and Sunday Schools, and every good work.

THEODORE HENRY HART, second son of Theodore Ephraim Hart, of Canandaigua, N. Y., and his wife, Eliza (Collins), born January 26th, 1831, at Harford, Cortland County, N. Y.; married October 11th, 1859, Caroline S. Stone, of Philadelphia, Penn. He was a graduate of Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y., in 1852. He died in Philadelphia, Penn., April 12th, 1861, aged 30 years, 2 months, and 16 days.

Obituary Notice from a Daily Paper.

"Theodore Henry Hart was born in Harford, Cortland County, N. Y., January 26th, 1831; died in Philadelphia, Penn., April 12th, 1861. While a junior in college Mr. Hart made a public profession of religion, and united with the Congregational Church of Canandaigua, N. Y. In the fall of 1853 he entered the Union Theological Seminary, but was compelled, by loss of health, to leave for a warmer climate. This breaking up of his cherished plans he reconciled himself to by helping a number of young men in preparing for the ministry. He engaged in active business in Philadelphia, and was very successful. In 1857 he visited Europe, and sent home sketches of travel, that were published in the Northern Independent. They reveal a genial nature, with the nice tastes of the scholar, and such pleasant power of expression, that they deserve to be preserved in a more permanent form. Mr. Hart's life was short, but was filled up with acts of usefulness and charitable beneficence, and was rich with tokens, that it answered life's great end. He leaves a wife and one son, who bears his name."

2731.Fair Haven, Conn.*

REV. BURDETT HART, New Britain, eldest son of Deacon Norman Hart, of the same town, and his wife, Minerva, daughter of Thomas Lee, Esq., and his wife, Electa (Riley), born November 16th, 1821, in New Britain, Conn.; graduated at Yale College in 1842, and settled in the ministry at Fair Haven, Conn.; married August 21st, 1849, Rebecca W., daughter of David Fiske, and his wife, Laura (Severance), of Shelburne, Mass., born February 22d, 1823.* His voice having partially failed, he traveled in Europe, and visited St. Paul, Minn., for a season, where he gathered a Congregational Church, and preached to them some twelve months, but not gaining much relief he was dismissed from Fair Haven, and removed to Philadelphia, where he engaged in mercantile pursuits. He was a good scholar, an easy writer, and a popular preacher. He returned to Fair Haven in 1874.

Since the above brief sketch was prepared the following communication has been received from a better informed source:

"His work in Fair Haven lasted some fifteen years. During the time he had invitations from Syracuse, N. Y., Manchester, N. H., Detroit, Mich., Middletown, Conn., St. Paul, Minn., and other places, to become their pastor. The church at Fair Haven was increased by 390 additions, 271 of them being heads of families. Through his influence the cause of education and social life was greatly promoted. During his ministry the church sent out over 100 members to form the second church. In St. Paul his congregation was one of the most intelligent in the city. Twelve lawyers were regular attendants. On thanksgiving day he preached a sermon on "Northern and Southern Civilization," the first anti-slavery sermon ever preached in that city. It created a great excitement, and led to much discussion in the press. Thirty lawyers were present. The church, during his short pastorate, increased nearly threefold. On leaving he received a unanimous call to become their pastor. Perhaps the most important work of his life has been done in Philadelphia. It was owing to his influence that the Congregational Churches have been planted there. Dr. J. P. Thompson once said to him—"I could not understand why you were removed from Fair Haven; but in the planting of Congregationalism in Philadelphia I see the reason." And many have said to him—"the work you have done here is vastly more important than you could have done in Fair Haven." By personal effort he enlisted a sufficient number of New Englanders to organize a church. Soon after he moved for a second church in another section of the city. Now they have two vigorous churches of that order there. The Central Church has just finished its ecclesiastical buildings, which, with the land, cost $120,000, and has a membership of over 200. The Plymouth Church has a commodious chapel, and a membership of about 100. The future of both seems to be assured. This work has not been confined to Philadelphia. Churches have followed at Baltimore, Washington, Vineland, and other places holding Congregational principles. It is said the establishing of the Congregational Church in Washington was owing to his influence. It would be impossible to measure the extent of this work. The Church of the Pilgrims, which he organized in Vineland, N. J., a flourishing and interesting community of 10,000 inhabitants, thirty-four miles south of Philadelphia, has prospered. Its membership has gone up from twenty-four to seventy-three. He was urged to become the permanent pastor. Quite a number of his sermons, as well as articles, have been published in the New Englander."

The afflicted parents will have the sincerest sympathy of all who knew them here in this second bereavement."

Caroline E., born May 14th, 1833, in Glastonbury, Conn.; married Francis B. Drake, of New York.

George Dwight, born July 26th, 1835, in Illinois; married Orlinda Moore, of Ohio.

NOTE.—These children have all settled within sight of their father's house, are all members of the church there, and are a great comfort to their father in his old age, and more especially in the loss of their mother as above stated.

WILLIAM STRICKLAND HART, New Britain, Conn., No. 265, page 122, Branch of John, and son of Roger Hart, No. 116, page 85, was a shoemaker by trade, and died in New Britain, March 15th, 1875, aged 69 years, 5 months, and 1 day. He was an active member of the Methodist Church, having united with that church in early life. His last sickness was fever, which lasted but one week. He made himself useful for several years as a night watchman in one of our largest manufacturing establishments. After his decease his widow removed to Hartford, where she formerly belonged.

EDWARD GARDNER HART, No. 519, page 124, fourth son of Salmon North Hart, No. 270, page 124, Branch of John, born October 9th, 1852; married December 7th, 1874, before Rev. Mr. Gage, Mary Scoville Calhoun, daughter of David Samuel Calhoun, Esq., and his wife, Harriet Antoinette (Gilbert), born July 23d, 1854, in Hartford, Conn. His avocation is carriage making, and he is supposed to be in company with his father, in his extensive establishment on Albany Avenue.

The following narrative and pedigree was kindly furnished by Rev. C. H. Hart, now of Logan, Ohio:

JOSEPH HART AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

JOSEPH HART was born in Botetourt County, Va., June 22d, 1760. The Christian names of his father and mother I am not able to give. The maiden name of his mother was Stout. She, with a brother older than herself, came from Wales, G. B., about the year 1750, and settled in South Carolina, where a Mr. Hart was married to Miss Stout, probably in the year 1758. One child, Joseph, was born to them, and during his infancy the mother died. The father married a second time. Of his children by the second wife I can not speak. When Joseph was eighteen or twenty years of age the family moved to the colony of Tennessee, on to the French Broad River.

During the last year of the revolutionary war Joseph became a soldier in the continental army, and in the third month of his soldier life he was engaged in a battle with the British and tories, in which he was wounded in the right hip, and from which he did not recover until after peace was declared. In the year 1785 Joseph Hart was married to Miss Nançy Shanklin, of East Tennessee, and settled in Blount County, near Maryville. To them there were born six children, viz: Edward, Thomas, Elizabeth, Joseph, Gideon Blackburn, and Silas. In 1810 the mother died, and the father married his second wife—Miss Mary Means, of Blount County, in the year 1812. To them were born five sons, viz: William, Samuel, James Harvey, Isaac Anderson, and Charles Coffin. These eleven children were all born in Blount County, Tennessee.

In October, 1821, Mr. Hart, with his wife and four younger sons, emigrated to Indiana, and settled on Clifty Creek, in Bartholomew County. Here Gideon B. soon joined the family, he having gone to Vincennes, on the Wabash, the year before. Before leaving Tennessee Isaac Anderson, the ninth son, was choked to death with a grain of coffee before he was two years old. William, the sixth son, was drowned in Clifty Creek while bathing, June 6th, 1826, aged 14 years. Mr. Hart buried his second wife September 11th, 1827.

The most remarkable feature of Joseph Hart's character was his deep, fervent, practical piety. He was converted in early life, and for more than half a century he literally walked with God, "and was not, for God took him," June 25th. 1840, aged 80 years and 3 days.

Edward Hart married in Blount County, Tennessee, was the father of nine children, and died in his 76th year.

Thomas married in Blount County, and was the father of one son and nine daughters. The son died in infancy. The daughters are all still living, and bringing up children. Thomas, with all his family, emigrated to Indiana, and settled on Clifty Creek in 1846, where he died in July, 1866, aged 74 years.

Elizabeth Hart was married to Mr. William Trotter, of Blount County, Tennessee, in September, 1821. She became the mother of eight children. The family emigrated to Indiana, and settled on Clifty Creek in 1834, and in 1839 settled in Clarke County, Indiana, nine miles east of Charleston, where he died in 1869, aged 74 years.

Gideon Blackburn was married to Miss Hetty Ann Taylor, of Bartholomew County, in 1825, and was the father of nine children. He was at one time sheriff of his county, and for many years held the office of school commissioner. He represented his county in the state legislature one term. He died in 1854, aged 56.

Joseph Hart, Jr., married, and settled in Columbia, Maury County, Tenn., where he died without children.

Silas Hart married Miss Susan Strain, of East Tennessee. They had but one child, Silas Hart, Jr., now living in California. Silas died in East Tennessee about the year 1824.

In 1832 Samuel, the seventh son, went to Mississippi, and settled at Carrollton as a merchant, where he still continues in business. In 1840 he married Miss Amanda Ayres, of Elkton, Ky. They have had ten children. Samuel Hart served his county for many years as probate clerk.

James Harvey, the eighth son, served an apprenticeship to the tailoring business, in Columbus, Ind., and in September, 1836, when the Ohio River was very low, he, with two shop-mates, purchased a skiff at New Albany, Ind., in which, with fishing tackle and guns, they made a journey of 600 miles, to the mouth of the Wabash River, thence to Shawneetown, where he still resides as a merchant tailor. He was married to Miss Achsa Gold, of Shawneetown, in 1857. They have had four children.

Charles Coffin Hart was born in Blount County, Tennessee, March 29th, 1820, and accompanied the family to Indiana in 1821. He served an apprenticeship to the cabinet making business in Salem, Washington County, Ind., from February, 1836, to February, 1840, and worked as a journeyman for two years. He graduated at Marietta College in 1848, and at Lane Theological Seminary in 1852, and was ordained as a minister of the gospel at Carrollton, Miss., by the presbytery of Lexington South, January 1st, 1853. He supplied the churches of Carrollton, Middleton, and Greenwood, all in Carroll County, Miss., from early in the year 1852 to January, 1856. April 1st, 1856, he was settled over the Presbyterian Church of Logan, Hocking County, Ohio, in which capacity he continued until October, 1868, when he removed to Shawneetown, Ill., and was settled as pastor over the Presbyterian Church of that place, and continued his labors there for three years, when the church of Logan, Ohio, re-called him, and on the 1st of November, 1871, he was re-installed as pastor in Logan, where he still continues his labors, December, 1874. He was married in St. Louis, Mo., September 6th, 1853, to Miss Olivia Page Studley, of Boston, Mass., a granddaughter of Major Isaac Andrews, of Hillsboro, N. H. They have six children, three sons and three daughters, viz: 1, Edward Studley, born March 9th, 1855, in Carrollton, Miss.; 2, Horace Pierce, born March 12th, 1858, in Logan, Ohio; 3, Alice Whipple, born July 17th, 1859, in Logan, Ohio; 4, Mary Pamelia, born April 19th, 1862, in Logan, Ohio; 5, Olivia Rochester, born July 10th, 1865, in Logan, Ohio; 6, Joseph Charles, born November 20th, 1866, in Logan, Ohio.

NOTE.—For one hundred years religion has had a home in this family. The descendants of Joseph Hart to the fifth generation are known. There are to-day more than a hundred who are consistent Christians, adorning the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Quotation from the will of William Shakespeare, A. D. 1616 :

"Item. I give and bequeath unto her (i. e., his sister Joan), three sons William Hart, ——— Hart,* and Michael Hart, five pounds apiece, to be paid one year after my decease."

I quote the above from an edition of Shakespeare published in 1656.

It seems that he bequeathed to this sister (Joan) 20 pounds, his wearing apparel, "and the house in Stratford wherein she dwelleth, for her natural life, under the yearly rent of twelve pence."

---

*Malone says: "It is singular that neither Shakspeare nor any of his family should have recollected the name of his nephew, who was born at Stratford but eleven years before the making of his will. His christian name was Thomas; and he was baptized in that town July 24, 1605."
